ALZHEIMER'S, DEMENTIA, AND THE LAW

Presentations by Dana Moore, J.D. and Glen Provost, J.D., M.P.H.

In this timely, one-day course you will:

- Learn the basic, but essential, causes, symptoms, and latest research on Alzheimer's disease and other dementias;
- Receive valuable information on how to interact with and provide legal assistance to those with Alzheimer's/dementia and their families;
- Receive important legal and ethical guidance to avoid potential conflicts of interest when representing mentally incapacitated clients;
- Be made aware of recent Texas case law regarding tort, contractual, and probate related liability issues associated with representing mentally incapacitated clients;
- Learn of some valuable steps the attorney can take to protect the interests of clients and their families that often result from the inevitable and terminal consequences of Alzheimer's disease.

These are just a few examples of what will be presented in this course. The information presented will benefit not only court personnel, attorneys, their clients, and their clients' families, but also nurses and other health professionals, caregivers, social workers, financial planners, long term care administrators, and others with roles in assisting persons with diminished mental capacity.
